Formal and informal cooperation with enforcement authorities

As law students we are taught how to fight our cases in court, but as practicing criminal lawyers we quickly learn that our clients' best interests are not necessarily achieved through litigation. While pleading guilty and pleading not guilty would appear to be binary options, very often the best outcome is achieved by carefully exploring the area in between. For both the prosecution and defense litigation carries risk, cost and uncertainty; in most jurisdictions there are therefore formal and/or informal processes for engaging with enforcement authorities. This panel will take a critical look at this topic from the perspective of different jurisdictions and ask the important question: does cooperation produce good and just outcomes?

Extradition and 'related' international criminal law issues arising from the Ukraine crisis

Following two years of the conflict in the Ukraine, this panel will look at the various international criminal law issues that have arisen so far and will be coming down the track. The panel will consider the impact in various jurisdictions looking at matters of extradition, Interpol red notices, asset freezes, civil recovery/confiscation, sanctions de-listing applications and other future white-collar matters, such as post conflict corruption issues in winning project contracts through public procurement.

Is there a need to introduce DPAs in those two countries?

Subsidies fraud post-Covid-19

This panel will dissect the intricate landscape of subsidies fraud in the aftermath of the Covid-19 pandemic. The health emergency created by Covid-19 led state authorities and international institutions to allocate significant financial resources to companies, through subsidies and other forms of aid, to overcome not only the sanitary urgencies, but also the subsequent economic crisis. These subsidies were often granted through fast-track procedures with relaxed controls and unusual procurement processes. Did companies manage these public funds diligently? Has there been an increase in investigations of fraud and corruption because of the audits carried out by regulatory authorities after the global crisis? This panel will navigate the complexities of this topic, discussing actual cases from different jurisdictions, emerging trends, lessons learned and strategies to combat fraudulent practices.

Whistleblowing – criminal aspects

In recent years in Europe, the discussion about whistleblowers has been dominated by the issues related to the implementation of the EU directive on the protection of persons reporting breaches of EU law. These discussions mainly revolved around available tools to protect whistleblowers and incentives aimed at strengthening so-called 'speak-up' policies. However, the issue of whistleblowers has a much broader scope; information disclosed by a whistleblower can lead to many consequences for a company, including the fear of criminal proceedings. The protections implemented by the EU may lack equivalents in other jurisdictions and often local regulations differ on issues such as whether a whistleblower can receive an award for reporting misconduct. We will discuss the challenges and best practices for representing clients in light of these varied legal regimes.

Tax prosecution: catch me if you can! Tax crimes and criminal taxes

At their most serious, tax crimes are prosecuted as fraud. Even the mere non-filing of a return can be treated by the Revenue Agency as evidence of the intent to evade taxes. In recent years, Italy has experienced many famous investigations relevant to tax crimes against corporations and other jurisdictions have their challenges as well. The criminal offenses charged by the Prosecution Service have been extremely various: permanent establishment issues, unfaithful tax declarations, VAT tax evasions, false invoicing, tax frauds and many others, including cross-border problems (eg, legal privilege in the execution of a European investigation order). The defense strategy in case of tax crimes is peculiar, given both the high specialisation required by this particular kind of crimes and the number of players involved (Tax Police, Revenue Agency and Public Prosecutor). The panel will address a number of issues arising from these investigations, with the perspective of the defense counsel, of the Prosecutor's Office, of the General Counsel and of the technical expert.

Alessandro Schiaffino PwC Forensic Department, Parma

1045 – 1105 Coffee/tea break

1105 – 1235

Rights of the Defendant: pre-trial detention and other issues

We will discuss the particular challenges of the defense of imprisoned defendants. Which particular difficulties and possibilities does the defense have? What are the conditions for the accused to defend themselves being in pre-trial detention? We want to compare how pre-trial detention is applied in different countries and what the conditions in pre-trial detention are like. Is use made of alternative ways to avoid pre-trial detention? Have such alternatives proved successful? Do certain minimum standards exist?

Current activities in politics and legislation will also be addressed, such as the EU Recommendation on the procedural rights of suspects and accused persons subject to pre-trial detention and on material detention conditions.

The IBA, its officers and staff accept no responsibility for any views expressed, presentations or materials produced by delegates or speakers at the Conference.

The organisers may at any time, with or without giving notice, in their absolute discretion and without giving any reason, cancel or postpone the Conference, change its venue or any of the other published particulars, or withdraw any invitation to attend. In any case, neither the organisers nor any of their officers, employees, agents, members or representatives shall be liable for any loss, liability, damage or expense suffered or incurred by any person, nor will they return any money paid to them in connection with the Conference unless they are satisfied not only that the money in question remains under their control but also that the person who paid it has been unfairly prejudiced (as to which, decision shall be in their sole and unfettered discretion and, when announced, final and conclusive).

Continuing Professional Development/Continuing Legal Education

For Conference delegates from jurisdictions where CPD/CLE is mandatory, the IBA will provide a Certificate of Attendance for the Conference. Subject to CPD/CLE requirements, Conference delegates can use this to obtain the relevant number of hours' accreditation. The number of CPD/CLE hours available may vary depending on the rules applied by the members' bar association/law society on time recording criteria.

A Certificate of Attendance is available to Conference delegates on request. Please ask at the IBA Conference registration desk for information on how to obtain the certificate.

Anyone found wearing a badge that they are not entitled to wear will have the badge confiscated and will be asked to leave the conference.

Dietary requirements

The IBA endeavours to accommodate all special dietary requests confirmed to us before bookings close. Requests made after this time cannot be guaranteed.

Promotional literature

Please note that no individual or organisation may display or distribute publicity material or other printed matter during the Conference, unless by prior arrangement with the IBA. Organisations and companies wishing to discuss promotional opportunities should contact the IBA Sponsorship Department at sponsorship@int-bar.org.

Photography and filming

Certain sessions and/or social functions may be photographed and/or filmed and some of this content may be used for future IBA marketing materials, member communications, products or services. Should you have any concerns about this, or do not wish to be featured in any of these materials please contact the IBA Marketing Department at ibamarketing@int-bar.org.

No participant, attending in any capacity, is authorised to record or film the conference working sessions, workshops or social function without the prior written permission of the Conferences Director.

Conference sell-outs

The IBA places its conferences in venues of a suitable size for each event; however, there are times when our conferences may sell out. Should this happen, prospective delegates will be informed, and a waiting list will operate. The waiting list will function on a 'first come, first served' basis, subject to receiving delegate cancellations. The waiting list for a conference will close once it has reached ten per cent of the conference venue capacity, as it is very unlikely a place will become available. The IBA will not be liable for any travel or accommodation expenses incurred by an individual who travels to a conference without a confirmed place at the event.

Hotel accommodation

There is no room block at the hotel. Please select the 'Accommodation' link on the conference webpage to see suggested alternatives nearby:

www.ibanet.org/conference-details/CONF2437.

Delegates are responsible for making accommodation reservations directly with the hotel and entering into an agreement with the hotel regarding credit card guarantees, cancellation terms and conditions, and room rates. The IBA cannot accept responsibility for hotel accommodation disputes between a delegate and the hotel.

Unauthorised accommodation agents

It has been brought to our attention that there are multiple companies contacting past attendees, claiming to represent the IBA, offering 'assistance' with conference and hotel bookings. They are operating by cold-calling and spamming companies whose names have appeared on previous List of Participants, Programmes and Sponsorship recognition. The only Accommodation Agent the IBA works with is Judy Lane ICS. Judy Lane ICS do not contact delegates on behalf of the IBA without delegates making initial contact. Please ignore any communication that does not come directly from the IBA or Judy Lane ICS.

Disabled access

The hotel is wheelchair accessible. Please notify us if you require special assistance.

International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

About the IBA

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations, law firms and law societies.

The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of more than 80,000 individual lawyers and more than 190 bar associations and law societies spanning over 170 countries.

Inspired by the vision of the United Nations, the IBA was founded in the same spirit, just before the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was proclaimed in 1948.

The IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to date information, enabling them to better represent their clients' interests.

Through its various committees, fora, and task forces, the IBA facilitates the exchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of law around the globe.

Business Crime Committee

The Business Crime Committee's primary objective is to provide a forum for members to meet and discuss, address and advocate on core and recently developing white collar issues. The Committee's goal is also to promote awareness within the business community and among transactional lawyers of the growing significance of novel criminal defence tactics.

The Committee has recently been focusing on the new trends of international cooperation in criminal matters. Other topics covered in recent seminars and conferences include discussions on money laundering issues, cyber crime, internal investigation challenges and strategies, and on the new legal framework designed to combat bribery and corrupt practices in international business transactions.

Criminal Law Committee

The Criminal Law Committee provides a forum for members from many countries and criminal justice systems to meet regularly, communicate, exchange views, and monitor developments in substantive and procedural criminal law. The committee focuses on developments of transnational and international significance. The interaction and cooperation within the committee keeps members informed of developments in criminal law and criminal procedures through newsletters and appointed rapporteurs.

The listings of committee members, according to location and practice area, and the ability to utilise the website to inquire about legal and representation issues, promotes the referral of cases to fellow members, mutual cooperation in transnational criminal and related cases, as well as an opportunity to exchange professional experiences and to assist other members in transnational aspects of criminal law cases.
